SAVILLE-HOUSE, LEICESTER-SQUARE.
INCOMPREHENSIBLE EXPERIMENT.

THE most surprising Phenomenon that has ever been witnessed in London!—The INVISIBLE GIRL!—The celebrity of the experiment, known on the Continent by the appellation of the INVISIBLE GIRL, induces the inventor thereof, Mr. R CHARLES, to hope that the Curious in England, and the Amateurs of surprising performances in particular, will receive much gratification in paying attention to an effect so extraordinary of the Catroptric and Acoustic Arts, as seems to be the result of Magic.

PARTICULARS OF THE EXPERIMENT.

1. In the middle of a large and light Saloon is a Case or Globe made of Glass, to which four Acoustic Pavillions are adapted, but without any communication therewith, and suspended only by a simple ribbon.

2. In speaking, even in a low voice, the sound is heard by the Young Lady, who is invisible to the most penetrating eye, and who answers immediately to all questions that are addressed to her, either in English, French, or German; sings agreeably, and holds a conversation upon any subject whatever.

3. But what surprises most, and seems to be a prodigy is, that nothing in the Saloon escapes her notice; the sex, the number of the company, the colour of their cloaths—in short, every thing is so completely visible to her as she is invisible to the Assembly, near whom she seems to be, sighs close to their ears, so that her breath may not only be heard but also felt, follows all their motions, and seems even to guess their thoughts.

This curious experiment will be performed This Day, from 10 o'clock in the morning 'till dusk, and will be repeated every day at the same time, Sundays excepted.—Admittance, 1s. 6d.

An Entire New and very Interesting ADDITION to the PHANTASMAGORIA, or OPTICAL and MECHANICAL EXHIBITION,
By M. DE PHILLIPSTHALL, at the LYCEUM, STRAND.

THIS and every Evening, will be produced, in addition to the usual Performances at this place, which have already been honoured with the greatest applause, a Curious Optical Illusion, called The SORCERER's ANNIVERSARY, representing, in the most extraordinary manner, a DANCE of WITCHES.—This wonderful performance, on account of its originality and incredible diversity, whenever exhibited, has always afforded the most general satisfaction, and been honoured with the highest marks of approbation.

M. DE PHILIPSTHALL, ever grateful for the favours he has experienced in this Metropolis, flatters himself with the hope, that to the Amateurs of curious Experiments, this addition to his Performances will be found equally amusing and interesting, with those he has already had the honour to produce.—Sanctioned by his Majesty's Royal Letters Patent, he is, nevertheless, proud to acknowledge a more valuable protection—the liberal support of a judicious, deserving, and generous Public.

The commencement of this New Performance presents to the eye of the Spectator one Single Figure, which in an instant multiplies itself into a great number more; and without any visible interference of agency, is surrounded with groupes of Witches, expanding themselves, as it were, over the whole extent of the Theatre, and forming the characteristic dances of those imaginary beings.—Doors open every Evening at Seven o'Clock, and begin precisely at Eight.—N. B. Select Parties may be accommodated with a Morning Representation, at any appointed hour, upon giving one day's notice.—Places to be taken at the Lyceum every day from 12 to 4.—Admittance, Boxes 4s.—Pit 2s.

SPRING GARDENS, GREAT ROOM.

THE ORIGINAL GREAT HISTORICAL PICTURE, painted by SAMUEL JAMES ARNOLD, representing, on a most extensive scale, the memorable BATTLE BEFORE ALEXANDRIA, on the 21st of March, 1801, in which the gallant Sir RALPH ABERCROMBY lost his life, continues open at the GREAT ROOM, SPRING GARDENS, every day, from ten till dusk.—Admittance One Shilling.—Sketches of Reference are delivered to Ladies and Gentlemen honouring the Exhibition with their presence, and a person attends to explain the Picture.

To the NOBILITY and GENTRY.

MERLIN, with the most grateful sense of the many favours they have conferred on him by honouring him with their presence at, and recommendations of, his Museum, begs to acquaint them, that, anxious to increase their pleasure, he has, with much labour and expence, added to the number of his Mechanical Exhibitions, in which the mind is lost in wonder and astonishment at its powers. The numerous Company which Mr. M. is honoured with, adds to make it one of the most pleasing places of Entertainment in the metropolis.

Open in the Morning from 11 till 3, at 2s. 6d.; and in the Evening from 7 till 9 at 3s.—Closes at 10.
No. 11, Prince's-street, Hanover-square.

Oh, that the EYE of CHARITY and HUMANITY may with Pity behold this Advertisement!

A YOUNG GENTLEMAN and LADY, not married two years, of good family and connexions, who have moved in the first circles, are now in the greatest distress. They will come to a fortune shortly, that will restore them to their former situation in life; but, in the interim, if not relieved by this application, which they with pain acknowledge to be their last resource, they will be utterly lost! One Guinea from each who may read this Advertisement, whom they have been in the greatest intimacy and friendship with, would rescue them from their present distress. They have a Child to share their melancholy distress. The Gentleman has served his King and Country the greater part of the War.

Donations will be most thankfully received at the Banking-house of Messrs. Devaynes, Noble and Co.; and at Messrs. Ransom, Morland and Co. Pall-mall, where every satisfaction will be given respecting their miserable situation.

MONEY Ready to Advance.—All Persons in the Possession of Incomes, arising from Freehold, Copyhold, or Leasehold Estates, in Land or Houses, Money in the Funds, Rent Charges, Marriage Settlements, Widows Jointures, Annuities, Patent Places, Church Livings, or any other certain Income for Life, may be supplied with temporary or permanent Sums of Money to any amount, by paying an adequate Annuity Interest for the same, redeemable any time at their own option. The Nobility and Gentry of known property may be accommodated on their personal security. Estates surveyed, and sold by Public or Private Contract. Personal applications will be received every day till three o'clock, and letters from Correspondents in town or country (post paid), will be immediately answered, addressed to Messrs. Harris and Co. at their Annuity Bank, No. 5, Great Suffolk-street, Charing-cross.

IRISH LINENS.—As some Retail Linen Drapers in our neighbourhood have endeavoured to mislead the Public, by assuming to belong to our Establishment. We are obliged to make known, that we have no connexion with any other House in this City. We came over last July from Ireland to form the present Establishment, and sell IRISH LINENS; but no other article for account of the Irish Manufacturers. Our Goods are rated at the Wholesale Dublin and Belfast Prices, which are from ten to twenty per cent. under the retail prices of this City; and our character for having Goods superior to what is generally to be met with (we presume), is already established. Our dealings are conducted with the strictest regularity and candour. Each Piece is rated, and no second price ever made. No less quantity than a piece of 25 yards can be sold, and the Money returned if a fault appears on opening. The Irish Linen Company pledge themselves, that every transaction of their House shall be conducted with that fairness and candour which has already obtained for them general confidence.

Six Guineas, which will include the tax, the Patentee trusts will be regarded a more moderate remuneration than five were, before the numerous proofs now before the public of their durability and extensive utility.

ELECTION LAW.

W. CLARKE and SONS, Law Booksellers, of Portugal-street, Lincoln's Inn, beg leave to inform those Gentlemen concerned in Elections, that they have the following Works on that Subject ready for immediate Sale, viz.

Clifford on Election Treating.—Fraser on Controverted Elections, 2 vols.—Glanvil on Elections.—Heywood on County and Borough Elections, 2 vols.—Luder's on Controverted Elections, 3 vols.—Orme's Digest of Elections.—Simeon on the Law of Elections.—Tomlin's Evidence of Election Committees.—Troward's Statutes relating to Elections.—History of the Boroughs and Counties with the Right of Voting, 2 vols.

SUICIDE!

IT frequently happens that, had the unhappy Suicide but made the cause of his sufferings known, his misery might have been diminished, and the dreadful resolution cancelled.—But shame, false pride, or timidity, may prevent the communication to a relative or friend; whilst they might not impede the necessary disclosure to one known to him only by his character for universal benevolence. Those who have been snatched from self-murder might thus be also saved the repetition of that anguish which impelled them to the dreadful resolve—the deluded, pitiable female might be sheltered from unfeeling reproach—the rankling wounds of a conscience, perhaps too vulnerable, might be healed—the sad victim of imprudence or misfortune might be protected from total perdition, by an association of the Rich and Benevolent, who might appoint a certain number of Gentlemen and Ladies, to whom, under an engagement of the strictest secrecy, applications for relief might be made in cases of extraordinary distress.

If twelve Gentlemen signify their wish to promote such an Institution, and favour the Writer of this Advertisement with their addresses, in a line to A. B. at the Crown and Anchor Tavern, in the Strand, he will call them together, and leave the Work in their hands: if not, he must content himself with having done that to which he has been impelled by a sense of duty.

An ELEGANT ART, to be acquired by Ladies and Gentlemen of Taste and Genius.

MRS. BEETHAM being so fortunate as to possess exclusively the Art of executing PROFILE DRAWINGS in all its branches of improvement since its first commencement as a Black Contour Likeness to its present state of Transparency on Glass, proposes most respectfully to TEACH the entire principle of this ingenious ART to a select number of Ladies and Gentlemen. It is her intention to explain all the curious Arcana of this species of celebrated Delineation, which she flatters herself no other competitor possesses to that degree of taste, semblance, and execution which has so long distinguished her Profiles in Transparency. Mrs. B. proposes to take only a certain number, and to be as select as possible. She means not to begin teaching any Pupil until she has entirely completed her List of Subscribers. Mrs. B. therefore humbly requests that such Ladies and Gentlemen as are desirous of acquiring this accomplished Art will send their names as early as possible to No. 3, Judd-place West, Sommer's Town; or Beetham's Warehouse, No. 27, Fleet-street, where terms and further particulars may be known by application.—Mrs. BEETHAM cannot omit acknowledging her obligation to those Nobility and Gentry who have honoured her with their commands, and begs leave to assure them of her unremitting attention in continuing to execute choice Specimens of the Profile Art. N. B. The Art of Gilding upon Glass Mrs. B. will also teach, that her Pupils may be able to embellish their Drawings with the requisite Decorations.

INTRODUCTION TO HARMONY.

MR. SHIELD most respectfully intreats those Ladies and Gentlemen who have received the above Work without settling for the same, to transmit the amount before they leave Town, to No. 31, Berner's-street; or to Messrs. Robinsons, the Publishers, Paternoster-row, where 50 Copies (only) remain unsold—in consequence of which the price is raised to one guinea.—The Pretty little Heart—O bring me Wine—Conrade the Good—The Rans des Vaches—and many other favourite Trifles are among the examples, and cannot be purchased singly. The greatest exertions will be made during the Summer to render its Supplement deserving of the same public favour.

BOTANY, applied to the Relief of Human Misery.

The noble, reverend, and all other votaries of this enchanting science, who honour with their attention the Botanic Grounds of Mr. SWAINSON at Twickenham, will no doubt be informed with pleasure, that they are not designed merely to gratify scientific curiosity and elegant taste, but to answer some of the most interesting purposes of humanity. In a climate, where hardly any Vegetable is long secure from injury, by possessing kindred vegetables, and kindred classes, Mr. Swainson is enabled not only to extend and vary the original basis of the VEGETABLE SYRUP of DE VELNOS, as the habits, and even the peculiar diseases of the times may require; but to meet with greater certainty of success, than any man not having similar advantages, those grand sources of the present prevalent disorders, a debilitated scorbutic habit, and the penance of disallowed passions, in the melancholy consequences of which, immediate and remote, the dissipations and sins of the fathers are visited on the children to the third and fourth generation.
